Part B. CV SUMMARY (max. 3500 characters, including spaces)

Bachelor's degree in Biology. PhD in Genetics at the University of Seville (2001). I trained as a developmental biologist during my postdoctoral stay at the University of California San Francisco (2002-2008) where I carried out research on the molecular mechanisms governing pancreas embryonic formation as well as diseases related to this organ. I obtained fellowships from the Education Spanish Ministry (2002/04), Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (2005/06) and the California Institute of Regenerative Medicine (2007/08). In 2008 I joined the Institute of Biomedicine of Sevilla (IBiS) supported by a Ramon y Cajal program contract to develop an independent research line in pancreatic beta cell formation, function and regeneration. In 2014 I was awarded with a Nicolas Monardes contract from the Andalusian Health Service that allowed me to work with the Endocrinology Unit of Virgen del Rocio Hospital in translational research focused in human endocrine diseases associated to pituitary tumor and the identification of prognostic markers. We have also developed a new research line in the Endocrinology Unit studying complications associated to obesity and how these are improved upon bariatric surgery. In 2018 I obtained a position as Tenured Scientist at the Spanish National Research Council (CSIC) to work on pancreatic β -cell formation and (dys) function. The research in our group has been funded by grants from the Ministry of Science and Innovation, ISCIII (FIS), regional grants as well as contracts with pharmaceutical companies.

Teaching in the "Research in Biomedicine" Master program and Biomedicine degree of University of Seville since 2014.
